Technology School Outlay Causes Pinch

Board of Education to Borrow $53,000 to Meet Expenses

Permission to borrow an additional $53,000 for school operating expenses between now and Sept. 12 was granted by the board of the Salem Board of Education by the board at its regular meeting Monday night at Junior High School.

According to the report of Darrell Fadely, business manager and assistant superintendent, this sum will boost the board's indebtedness to $100,000. He said $47,000 already has been borrowed with the board's approval, dating back to the July meeting.

The additional money, he said, is necessary to meet the upcoming school payrolls and outstanding bills between now and Sept. 12.

It was noted that had the $60,000 outlay for development of the Salem School of Technology been reimbursed by the state as early as had been suggested at the time the expenditures were made, the board would not have had to borrow the $47,000 already on the debt side.

The $60,000 outlay was necessitated to get the School of Technology into the action stage after its establishment by the school board and by the Divisions of Trades and Industries of the State Board of Education. The city board was to be reimbursed for its expenditures for supplies and materials, so that the school might open this fall.

Superintendent Paul Smith announced to the board that the employment of teachers in the system has been completed with the exception of an industrial arts teacher for the junior high school.

He said the elementary teaching positions were filled with the employment of Virginia Leach of Poland, a graduate of Kent State, and the employment of Mrs. Nancy K. Hurlie, presently of Highland, Mich., a graduate of Wayne State College. Both teacher's appointments were approved last night.

The board also approved the rehiring of Betty Penezot as an elementary teacher and as a special education teacher, Jacquelyn Hergenrother as an elementary teacher, and Mrs. Gloria Baker, as a speech therapist.

The board also approved the appointments of teachers for the Trades Extension School pending final enrollments. Those employed are Vernon Broomall, Robert G. Lewis, Karl Ramsden, Calvin Filler, Raymond Knight, Ned Massa, Robert Stuffer, Frank Stone, Jim Watterson, Raymond Himmel, Harold Keefer, Walter Yates, Richard Keller, Alfred Morris, Bob Cline, Bruce Delzell, Ralph Firestone, Gustaf Isaksson, Randall Justice, Fred White, Ben Kupka, Victor Lake, Marilyn Santullo, Mrs. Richard Conkle, Charles Corbett, Howard Jesko, and John Oana. The hourly rate for these employees is $4.

Pending further contract negotiations, the board approved that an $80 per game fee be assessed West Branch Local School District for use of Reilly Stadium for next football season. A request by West Branch was submitted to the board last month.

The newly organized school district has no field of its own. It was noted by Fadely that the $80 would cover the lighting of the field and the clean-up work following the game. He said it is tentatively planned to have West Branch take care of all other obligations. Fadely said Fred Cope, athletic director, is participating in the negotiations.

Unanimous approval on granting a $300-per-year pay increase to Fadely was given following a motion made by board member Bryce Kendall. The increase will bring Fadely's salary to $8,800.

Progress on the building program in the system is moving satisfactorily, Fadely said. He said renovation of former storage rooms at Reilly and McKinley Schools into classrooms will be completed by the start of the school year, and the cafeteria at the junior high school is nearing completion.

He said new lighting had been installed in the cafeteria and that the tile and necessary conduits had been installed. All orders for additional materials have already been placed, he added.

High School diplomas were granted three students who completed work in summer school. They are Bruce Capel, Carol Ritchie and Larry Shasteen.

On the recommendation of Smith, the board adopted two new textbooks: "Modern Chemistry," by Dull, Metcalfe, and William, published by Holt Publishing Co.; and a second year French text by O'Brien and LaFrance, published by Ginn and Company.

Lisbon Enacts Anti-Sign Law

Council Hears of County CD Program

LISBON — Village Council passed an anti-sign ordinance at its meeting Monday night in Village Hall.

The ordinance prohibits anyone from "posting, placing, hanging or displaying any poster, card or advertisement of any kind or nature on any pole, post or tree upon public property in the village."

The measure will affect the campaigns of contestants in the Nov. 3 election. Copies of the ordinance were mailed to both the Republican and Democratic parties.

The law provides for a fine of up to $25 for each poster displayed on village property.

Bills amounting to $6,130 were ordered paid.

Mayor Dean Stockman and Raymond Dixon explained the proposed county Civil Defense program. They and Mrs. Blanche Neill attended the meeting on Civil Defense sponsored by the Mayor's Association Thursday night in the Civil Defense Building on N. Market St.

Three volunteer firemen and Assistant Chief W. A. Peterson proposed using the village ambulance for emergency runs. Mayor Stockman referred their request to the fire committee.

Three new names were submitted as prospective members of the volunteer firemen. They are Donald V. Carman, 27, of Garfield St., Ross Gallo, 22, of N. Beaver St., and F. Jerome Deets, 23, of 411 1st Washington St. Two men are needed to fill the department's quota of 21 men. The third man would be placed on the stand-by list if accepted, Asst. Chief Peterson said.

Council approved the transfer of $300 from the general fund to the swimming pool fund to cover outstanding bills of $266. It was reported that there is a balance of $123 in the swimming pool fund.

Carl Turk of Lisbon RD 5, representing the Carl M. Turk Enterprises gave Council a summary of his plans for construction of new buildings on his lots at the corner of E. Lincoln Way and N. Jefferson St. He told council lack of steel was holding up construction but hopes work may start next week.

Joseph Dornon and Fred Steele were absent last night. The next regular meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Rocket Delays Firing Balloon Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Technical problems with a Thor-Delta booster rocket early today caused a 24-hour postponement in an attempt to launch a huge balloon satellite into orbit about the earth.

The launching of the 100-foot sphere was to be the first step in a long-range investigation of the use of satellites for global communications.

Worldwide radio, telephone and television systems could evolve from the project, called Echo.

The count-down proceeded smoothly until 25 minutes before the scheduled launch time. Then an unexplained hold was called and half an hour later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration called off the shot.

A brief statement said only that the launching was postponed because of technical difficulties with the rocket.

Woman Is Injured In Road Accident

A Louisville woman, Martha Sheatsley, 53, was taken to Alliance City Hospital with neck injuries, a sprain of the left ankle and abrasions after the car in which she was riding collided with another auto at 9:15 a.m. Monday.

State Highway Patrolmen of the Lisbon post said the woman was a passenger in an auto driven by Robert R. Sheatsley, 16, also of Louisville, which struck a car driven by Charles W. Clezie, 50, of Canton on County Rd. 401, about 1.2 miles south of Rt. 62. Patrolmen said Clezie was pulling out of a private drive when the collision occurred.

Clezie was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way.

"If they expect to accomplish anything else," he said of sponsors of civil rights legislation, "they must bring it up."

Russell spoke in an interview as Republicans maneuvered to force a test vote in the Senate on two civil rights proposals urged by President Eisenhower Monday.

One would set up by law a commission to seek an end to racial hiring discrimination under government contracts. The other would help school districts meet added costs of integrating.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he would offer Wednesday if not Tuesday, a bill embodying the President's recommendations. Both were omitted from a bill passed earlier this year.

Dirksen said he would seek to have the new measure placed on the Senate calendar for action without being referred to the Judiciary Committee, long a dead end for civil rights bills.

Such a move would be subject to a Southern filibuster, but a test

Partisans Push For Advantage In Senate Meet

President Summons GOP Leaders to Strategy Breakfast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans and Democrats jockeyed for party advantage today in a Senate where nearly every move was studied for its effect on the presidential campaign.

Following up his opening message to the reconvening Congress Monday, President Eisenhower summoned GOP Senate leaders to a White House strategy breakfast.

There Vice President Richard M. Nixon had an unaccustomed role as the party's presidential nominee, free to chart his own course even if his views might not coincide entirely with those of Eisenhower.

Among other things, the conference was expected to approve a Republican strategy designed to demonstrate again to the country that the Democrats are sharply divided for and against their party's strong platform declaration for civil rights.

The plan was to offer a bill wrapping up two civil rights proposals Eisenhower made: (1) Action to give statutory authority to a committee now headed by Nixon for fair employment practices on government contracts; and (2) Authorization for federal payments to school districts which encounter extra costs in integrating their schools.

That this bill would get nowhere was obvious to all concerned. Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said Southerners would fight it with WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter warned Soviet leaders today the United States will act "with speed, force and unity" to deal with any new Red threat or world crisis.

Herter told a news conference he issued the warning in an effort to dispel any belief by friends or foes abroad that the United States "becomes paralyzed or semi-paralyzed" during a presidential election period.

HAMMARSKJÖLD ADDRESSES U.N. The Secretary General warned that the world faced the issue of "Peace or War," and called for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Belgian forces from the Congo, including secessionist Katanga province.

Powers Confesses Guilt, Reds Say

MOSCOW (AP)—Francis Gary Powers has "pleaded guilty to the substance of the charge" that he spied on the Soviet Union in his U2 plane, the news agency Tass said today.

Tass said the guilt of the American flier, due to go on trial here Aug. 17, "is confirmed by material and written evidence," the findings of experts and the testimony of witnesses.

The indictment against Powers, who parachuted from his crippled plane in the Urals May 1, was reported to total about 4,000 words.

Tass said the indictment was drawn up by the state security committee and was approved July 9 by Roman Rudenko, U.S.S.R. prosecutor general.

It accuses Powers of "having been engaged in active espionage against the Soviet Union, which represents a manifestation of the aggressive policy followed by the U. S. government."

Powers' high-flying plane came down near Sverdlovsk, east of Moscow. The Soviet version is that it was felled by an anti-aircraft rocket.

According to the indictment, Tass said, Powers "intruded into the airspace of the U.S.S.R. for the purpose of collecting intelligence of strategic nature on the location of rocket bases, airfields, radar network and other highly important defense and industrial objectives of the U. S.S.R."

Lumumba Says Congo to Fight

Calls Troops to Rid Country of Belgians

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Patrice Lumumba said today his fledgling Congo army and soldiers of other African nations will invade Katanga province to free it from the Belgians.

"The whole government will go to Katanga, and if the Belgians will shoot, we will be happy to die for the country," Lumumba told a news conference. Some 40 Congolese present applauded wildly.

The premier refused to discuss the move on Katanga further. Katanga officials who went to the United States for the United Nations Security Council debate said their 4,000 native soldiers could handle any Lumumba sent.

A few hours before Lumumba's news conference, his government declared a state of emergency throughout the Congo and ordered the immediate closing of Belgium's seven consulates in the vast central African nation.

The government also ordered Baron Jean Van den Bosch, head of the Belgian diplomatic mission in Leopoldville, to quit the country before noon.

Lumumba said he has given "all power" to the Congo army — the Force Publique — and its new commander, Gen. Victor Lundula, to "restore order in the country."

"The army will arrest anybody, black or white, who disturbs order in the Congo," the Premier declared.

Such action could cause serious difficulties between the Congolese soldiers and the U.N. force now trying to maintain order in all of the Congo's provinces except secessionist Katanga.

It was the Force Publique mutiny against its white Belgian officers that plunged the new nation into chaos and brought the U.N. force into the Congo.

The U.N. force disarmed some Congolese units, but many others kept their arms. In recent days truckloads of armed Congolese soldiers have been seen in Leopoldville.

Lumumba said his government will not accept "domination" from the United Nations.

"We want collaboration and not charity," he declared. "The Congolese and not United Nations officials should administer the Congo. The Congolese are capable of it."

Security Council Votes 9-0 for Resolution

Dag Warns of New War Unless Congo Crisis Is Solved

UNITED NATIONS N. Y. (AP) — Warned that world war might erupt if the Congo crisis is not solved, the Security Council early today called for Belgian troops to give way to U.N. forces immediately in secessionist Katanga province.

In a resolution sponsored by Ceylon and Tunisia and adopted 9-0, the 11-nation council authorized Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to arrange the change-over and asked him to report back. France and Italy abstained. The 4 a.m. vote climaxed an urgent overnight session that lasted for 11½ hours.

Hammarskjöld, who gave the world war warning, planned to leave after midnight tonight to fly back to the Congo, where Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga last week balked the entry of U.N. troops into his mineral-rich province in the southeast Congo.

The resolution sought to quiet Tshombe's fears that U.N. troops would be used to bring Katanga under the control of the central Congo government headed by Premier Patrice Lumumba.

It specified that the 12,000-man force would not "be used to influence the outcome of any internal conflict."

The resolution was in line with suggestions made by Hammarskjöld. It followed up the council's July 14 and 22 decisions that Belgium should pull her troops out of the Congo. It called upon her to withdraw them immediately from Katanga—the only one of the six Congo provinces where they remain outside their bases—and to do so "under speedy modalities determined by the secretary-general."

The Soviet Union, after supporting the resolution, did not press for a vote on a resolution of its own that implied the use of force if necessary to get U.N. troops into Katanga. This would have had Hammarskjöld "take decisive measures, without hesitating to use any means to that end, to remove the Belgian troops" from the Congo and safeguard the country's territorial integrity. It

Laos Capital Overthrown By Militarists

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A neutralist military revolutionary committee overthrew the pro-Western government of Laos today, radio broadcasts from the capital at Vientiane declared.

However, the revolutionary committee ordered military commanders in the little Asian kingdom to avoid bloodshed and keep their forces away from "adversary units." This indicated not all the army was behind the coup d'etat.

It was also considered possible that the rebels were not in complete control of the capital but had seized the radio station and were broadcasting communiques.

One of the communiques said one of the committee's neutralist aims is to expel all foreigners from the country.

This would be a severe blow at the Laotian army itself. The French and a U.S. military team of 24 train the 30,000-man army of Laos to help it resist the Communist rebels in the country.

On the Bookshelves

New Books at the Salem Public Library

NON-FICTION

"Daughters and Rebels" by Jessica Milford. A highly amusing account of the convention defying adventures of this sister of Nancy Mitford who wrote "Love in a Cold Climate". "The Blessing" and other delightful nonsensical books. Actually, this entire family consists of people who insist on defying convention — a few actually did so to the extent of becoming Fascists during World War II. Jessica writes of her childhood and youth, of her journey to Spain, her marriage to a man fully as scatterbrained as herself, and their life together, usually with barely enough money for their next meal.

"A Doctor in Many Lands" by Aldo Castellani. Doctor Castellani has had perhaps more royal and famous people as patients than any other physician. His interest in research has been life long and he has made several important discoveries about such diseases as sleeping-sickness and elephantiasis. He has lived in a great many places — Ceylon, Africa, Morocco, Portugal — and recalls interesting events from all of them.

"Pat Garrett" by Richard O'Connor. Pat Garrett's chief claim to fame was that he killed Billy the Kid. Since he lived in New Mexico during its wildest days, the story of his life is filled with gun battles and every other sort of violence. Mr. O'Connor has done much research to make his biography as nearly factual as possible.

"Nine Planets" by Alan E. Nourse. Dr. Nourse has attempted to do three things in this interesting and very readable book. First, he describes the physical nature of the planets and satellites of our solar system; second, he speculates about some of the things not known about these planets; and third, he discusses some of the philosophical problems the exploration of space has posed to the people of this world. A "must" for the layman interested in the possibilities of space travel, or in the possibilities of life on any of our neighboring planets.

"Physics Made Simple" by Ira M. Freeman. This title is almost self-explanatory. It can be used as an introduction to the study of physics; it can be understood by anyone who had had only a grade-school education; the experiments listed and described can be performed with simple equipment to impress on the mind the principles involved.

"Basic Electronics" by James Daly and R.A. Greenfield. The purpose of this book is to provide a general knowledge of electronics for the non-specialist. Many people have to work with complicated electronic machines on their jobs, and this book explains how various types of these machines operate, that is the principles behind their operation. It could be helpful to students also.

"Carinthia" by Egon Millonig. Another in the beautiful Panorama series, this little book is a concise and interesting introduction to this beautiful area of Austria.

"Quiet Strength From World Religions", by Quinter M. Lyon. The author, who has taught World Religions for twenty five years, believes that our own religious heritage can be strengthened by understanding religious traditions other than our own as well as those of the faith in which we have been brought up. Each subject is treated very briefly, and quotations have been drawn from many religions.

"An Immanuel Kant Reader," by Raymond B. Blakney (editor). The editor has presented selections from the four best-known works of Kant. He says that he has included mainly Kant's thoughts about the answers to two questions: 1. What do I know? and 2. What I ought to do? The four titles which are presented are: The Critique of Pure Reason; The Metaphysical Foundations of Morals; The Critique of Practical Reasoning; The Critique of Judgment. Mr. Blakney has done the translation anew of his selected articles, and he writes an introduction to each selection.

"Doorways to the World", by Elisa Daggs. Quantities of unusual photographs illustrate Miss Daggs' story of a world tour. But she sees a great deal more than just with her eyes. Her mind and emotions are stimulated by what she sees and she shares with us her thoughts and conjectures. This is not a guide book, although you will want to go to some of the places she talks about. This is a book to delight the discriminating.

"Haiti: Black Peasant and Voodoo", by Alfred Metraux. Another travel book, or contemporary history, illustrated with lovely photographs and some paintings. The author describes in detail the life and culture of the Negro people of Haiti who have only lately begun to realize their own potentialities.

DiSalle Takes Law Into Own Hands

We believe Gov. DiSalle, whose sincerity we admire, is far off base in continuing to take Ohio's criminal penalties into his own hands.

He has commuted the death sentence of another Ohio killer and saved him from the electrocution a jury decreed for him.

The score for Mr. DiSalle in his year and a half as governor now stands: 3 saved from death, 2 permitted to die, 2 executions held up pending further study.

In the latest case, where the governor changed execution to a life sentence for an 18-year-old Cincinnati slayer, he gave as his reason:

"... The fact that Huston Nelson (the slayer) committed an injustice against society will not be erased by society's compounding the injustice by taking his life."

THAT IS GOV. DISALLE'S opinion, to which he is entitled. It is not the opinion of many Ohioans who believe this state should have a death penalty not only as punishment for murder but as a deterrent to further murder.

It is not the opinion of many past legislatures which over the years have considered, and refused, abolition of the death penalty. We respect Gov. DiSalle's strong opposition to the death penalty, even though we disagree with it. We do not believe he has the moral right to take the law into his own hands, as he has done in the cases of three Ohio slayers, and supersede the decisions of juries which heard the evidence and courts which reviewed it and upheld the verdicts.

Ohio's governors have been given the power to change certain penalties inflicted by juries in criminal cases. That power was bestowed not with the idea that the governor should decide every case himself, but with the idea that some executive authority must exist to right any wrong that might be discovered.

It is perfectly proper, and necessary, for a governor to delay an execution when a court appeal is pending. It is perfectly proper, and mandatory, for a governor to act in the event of a miscarriage of justice in an infrequent case where it may be proved that an individual was wrongfully convicted.

Aside from instances such as these, a governor should leave justice to the courts where it belongs.

UNDER OHIO LAW, almost every technical advantage is held by the criminal. In many sections of the criminal statutes, the individual's right is placed first over society as a whole. Perhaps this is as it should be; our point is that when a jury convicts an individual of murder and decrees the electric chair the evidence against him must be overwhelming.

One man whose life has been spared by Gov. DiSalle was found guilty of killing a robbery victim. Another killed a woman friend and her suitor, who was his rival. The third, most recently, shot to death a 61-year-old woman in a drug store holdup at Cincinnati.

Unconscionable murders like these should not be taken lightly in Ohio. It now is possible for the 18-year-old spared Cincinnati youth to go free when he is 38 years old.

Hundreds of thousands of Ohio store employees and millions of Ohio men and women deserve better protection against wanton murder than Gov. DiSalle has been giving them.

Gov. DiSalle is perfectly within his rights to campaign for abolition of the death penalty. But until it is abolished by the people of Ohio he should not take the law into his own hands and abolish it, in effect, by his individual action.

Sadder, Wiser and What?

Roger Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel took pen in hand for Victor Riesel, the vacationing labor affairs columnist, with an interesting result.

Concerning what the steel industry learned from the great steel strike last year, Mr. Blough said in effect it now is sadder and wiser. It learned, for example, that it still doesn't know how to make a noninflationary agreement with the union. It learned that the union still isn't impressed with the importance of helping management put up a strong front against competition—that it still doesn't know it can't hurt the steel industry without hurting the industry's unionized employees.

Mr. Blough, as could be expected, hopes for the best. He believes there will be a net

Township Needs Zoning

Shall Perry Township be zoned for residential, agriculture, industrial and commercial districts?

That will be the question put to voters by the township trustees when the November election is held. The zoning plan has been carefully studied and public hearings held. Members of the zoning commission have worked arduously to come up with a program that is tailor-made for the Perry Township area surrounding the city of Salem. The city itself already is zoned and benefitting from it.

Township residents should realize that zoning assures proper, orderly growth and eliminates the usual hodge-podge construction that is now possible. The township has much to gain from zoning and the public should strive for adoption of the proposed ordinance.

It is a little early to be thinking of elections but not too soon for township residents to be seriously considering a program designed for their benefit.

Once Over

Nixon and Kennedy will stage such a rough race the Hollywood movie maker is sorry he didn't have them in time for "Ben Hur." This will be a political chariot race with neither Dick nor Jack giving an inch of the sharp turns. At this point nobody is certain which will prove to be Ben Hur and which will be Messala in the thrilling stretch run.

Nixon is more experienced with horses. He drove a grocer wagon as a boy and has been doing steady teamwork with Ike.

He has a tough Roman arena countenance at times. In a Colosseum racing costume he might look convincing.

Kennedy is a little light physically for chariot racing but Massachusetts folks are not without knowledge of horse racing and know the importance of oats even if what the Kennedy family has plenty of "ain't hay."

Jack didn't get where he is on a bicycle or pogo stick. In the first Senate race and in Los Angeles convention he rolled home in a cloud of dust in the manner of the Gen. Lew Wallace story even if there was no Messala because of the fact anybody who could have played that part turned in his chariot and whip, and was recorded as a late scratch. But election fight will be different.

Dick and Jack are already lashing at each other on the turns. Our combination chariot race and political expert rates 'em this way: Nixon will use economy chariot and not go in for horseflesh if cost unbalances budget or contributes to inflation.

He insists GOP chariot race policy is unbeatable and that Republicans are not a gain from these gross losses of the great 1959 steel strike. Meanwhile, it is interesting to note some statistical information from the U.S. Department of Labor.

THE STEEL INDUSTRY' productivity last year rose by an eye-popping 12 per cent. This means the industry's total physical output, divided by the total hours put into production by its employees, was 12 per cent higher than it was the year before.

Even taking into account a decline in productivity in 1958 and the year before, the steel industry made such strides in improving its productivity in 1959 that it showed a net gain of 9 per cent for the three-year period. Many things may have bearing on productivity, but the main thing that has had the main bearing in recent years in steel and all other industries that have shown higher productivity is the use of machinery to get out more production with the same or fewer hours of work.

THE PRODUCTIVITY now is responsible for the steel industry's ability to satisfy the demands of its customers in a buyer's market without approaching the man-hour rate formerly associated with high production. Productivity of this kind justifies a guess that the steel industry, like the auto industry, which is one of its prime customers, may satisfy demand for its product from now on with a short work year as well as a short work week.

Even in 1959, there was no acute shortage of steel, despite a 116-day strike. In 1959 there was that unprecedented rise in productivity, demonstrating what could be done in a pinch to step up steel production.

That, too, was one of the things the steel industry has learned recently—that it can withstand a long strike and still meet its market.

Kennedy is for new frontiers in chariot racing, says that if alive today Ben Hur would be in danger of a "red" Messala Alias Nikita the Scourge.

He is for more modern chariots, capable of greater distances and tougher fights and declares charioteers should have pioneer spirit.

He asks, "Where would Ben Hur have finished if he had spared expense, stood for tight money and put the budget ahead of Lew Wallace script?"

Old Faithful

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

In quiet hospital rooms here there are women whose minds and bodies were assaulted in outlying Congo districts where exactly a year ago was pushed around by snarling Stanleyville "river people."

I was later informed that the gang of men down at the docks from which the river boats leave for Leopoldville were tough cadres of professional "white haters." They were not typical of the Congolese elsewhere—and some of us wrote warnings of things to come.

It took riots and rape to swing the attention of Main Street, U.S.A. to sub-Saharan Africa. Some of us now are watching another development along the Congo borders and just beyond and warn once more of organized revolt and revulsion against the West.

And since our land has become the symbol of the West, we will somehow come out of new stirrings in French-speaking Africa, most hated.

THAT DEVELOPMENT will take form in public early in 1961 when the General Union of Black African Workers (UGTAN) holds its second congress.

Its president, Sekou Toure, also president of Guinea, then will reveal detailed plans for an all-African federation of labor.

At the moment, his Union Generale des Travailleurs d'Afrique Noire covers former French lands with a population of 25 million. Of these some 100,000 are Europeans, mostly French.

The horizons of President Toure, a Marxist, are neither lost nor hazy. He wants to expand his labor organization to African areas with a total population of more than 220 million people.

If successful, Toure, who got his early Communist training courtesy of the Soviets in Prague's Charles University, could some day be leading millions of militant African workers. I've met them. I've heard their angry tribal cries at union meetings. They have little to lose.

In Niamey, the Niger, the maximum daily wage is about 32 cents; in Dakar, Senegal, this runs to a high of 85 cents daily; while the highest skilled workers in the vast area centering around Dakar and Cotonou, Dahomey, is about $125 daily.

Discussion of an all-African federation of labor really began at the UGTAN's first congress in Conakry, Guinea, Jan. 15-18, 1959.

There were left-wing African labor leaders from the Cameroons, Togo and the many nations carved out of French West and Equatorial Africa.

Representatives of the Soviet's World Federation of Trade Unions, the French Communist CGT and the Chinese Communists romped all over the 300 delegates.

There were Communist party cadres, too. Especially from the Cameroons, Dahomey, the Niger and the Ivory Coast, which already has seen some grimly bloody riots.

THESE SOVIET agents were gleeful over the congress' attitudes. The convention called for a United States of Africa.

It rejected all economic, cultural or social "community" with Europe unless there is complete victory for the Algerian rebels, complete abandonment of the Sahara by the French and the end of atomic bomb tests on those great sands.

If President Toure can "unite and organize the workers of black Africa and coordinate their trade union activities in the struggle" against Europe, he would indeed be one of the world's most powerful men.

If he could then weld the industrial strength he would have as a labor leader to the influence he wields as President of a new African nation, he could someday be a balance of power in the U.N. and in the duel of the East and West.

Sekou Toure knows he can move to power only with the aid of other African labor leaders such as Kenya's Tom Mboya.

Many of these are anti-Communist. Thus President Toure is talking more and more like a cold war neutral. He may mean it, at that.

He may like his new independence and new strength to much to take his line from Moscow. Already he has put WEST African Communists in their place. And not too long ago he turned to the United States for official help. We brushed him.

There is just a chance it's not as late as we think in Africa. It's worth trying to make a neutral out of an ally of Khrushchev.

'Poor Richard' Gets Criticized

As might be expected, the professorial speech-writers employed by Candidate Kennedy are rich in historical allusions. They are, as is unfortunately true of some of their profession, quite ready with wisecracks and phrase-turning. The Kennedy acceptance speech is an omen of things to come. Seemingly the pundits ransacked the books for unfortunate people bearing the name of Richard.

The speech reminded its hearers that Richard I was the successor to the very forceful Henry II. But Kennedy might have added that if President Truman's advice had been taken and he had waited a few years and Nixon had failed, he might have succeeded this Richard. History tells us that the successor to Richard I was the weak and perfidious John who was compelled to sign the Magna Charta.

Even Richard Cromwell was resurrected — a man remembered only by those high school students who are fresh from their lessons. He succeeded Oliver Cromwell for a brief moment.

AS THE CAMPAIGN gets hotter and more personal, we may expect the Kennedy pundits to resurrect for comparisons with Richard Nixon two other historical figures; the unfortunate Richard II, and the reputed monster, Richard III. So far as the latter is concerned, recent historical evidence reveals that Richard III was not a bad man or a bad king.

But in hitting at Nixon by a sneer at Benjamin Franklin, politics gave way to a gross injustice to the greatest, most distinguished, and most gifted American of his time. Kennedy said that Nixon's "speeches are generalities from 'Poor Richard's Almanac'."

It happens that under the name "Poor Richard," Franklin as a famous, self-made refuge from his native Boston at the early age of 28 began his series of almanacs in 1732, the year Washington was born. It added greatly to his reputation and his fortune.

His advice was honey, sound, and useful. The wisdom and the aphorisms became household words for more than two centuries. It would be interesting to have Candidate Kennedy explain wherein he differs from Poor Richard's advice. It went into such subjects as thrift, paying one's debts, and patriotism.

But it was wisdom not just from a country bumpkin. For the Almanac was written by a man who, still younger than Candidate Kennedy, indicated that he had read widely in the riches of world literature — Dryden, Pope, Prior, Swift, Bacon, La Rochefoucauld. There are sayings in the Almanac from the Latin, Spanish, French, German and Welsh.

With the money Franklin gained from his writings, he bought time for profoundly important research and contributions in electricity which gave him respect in the scientific circles of Europe. There also were time and money for a vast public service. He spent nearly 30 years abroad in the service of his country and not only made the success of the American Revolution certain by his negotiations with the French, but won respect for his country everywhere.

THE IMPLICATIONS in all the Kennedy speeches that no one who was born before 1916 can project a vision of the future is denied by the later life of Franklin.

His vision of the future gave something to Americans that no other leader could equal — in science, diplomacy, statesmanship, in the preservation of liberty, and social progress.

When at the age of Kennedy's father, Franklin returned from unavailing efforts to conciliate the British with America, he helped draft the Declaration of Independence, a constitution for Pennsylvania and the Articles of Confederation. Then the elderly man was again sent abroad, where he concluded a treaty of alliance with France and, in 1783, dominated the peace-making with England.

In the movement for a new Constitution, he was a great force and as a delegate to the Convention in 1787 this venerable man of 81 contributed more than any other member to the reconciliation of sharp differences and the wisdom in fundamentals which made a new nation a success. While Franklin was not a major contributor to the language of the Constitution, it can be asserted that without him the Convention could not have succeeded.

It was not only bad taste but bad politics flippantly to demean Franklin in order to thrust at an opponent, I once heard a student tell a professor of English that he just didn't like Shakespeare. The reply was, "Young man, you do not judge Shakespeare; Shakespeare judges you."

Beef May Edge

By HENRY LESERNE

COLUMBIA, S.C. (NANA)—Is the old South, historically the land of cotton, to be the U.S. beef center of tomorrow?

Many farm experts are beginning to visualize it as such. They say, indeed, it is virtually inevitable. The trend toward an animal type of agriculture in the Southeast in recent years has been spectacular.

The regional agricultural economists view the outlook in this way: Protein—preferably in the form of a sizzling steak—is the most wanted food in the world. The cheapest way protein is obtained is from cellulose processed through food animals.

Because of abundant rainfall and a 12-month growing season, the South can produce more cellulose than any other section of the nation. Cellulose is the chief substance of all plants, shrubs, trees and the like.

ANNUAL BEEF consumption in the United States has risen in a decade from 60 to 85 pounds per person. Farm economists say it should increase even more in the future. Meanwhile human population increases at the rate of about 3,000,000 a year.

Each year about a million acres of agricultural land in the United States is going out of production because of new roads, houses, airports and other construction.

Most of the area in the West which can raise cattle is already doing so. Farm economists cite that a lack of water will limit the amount of any future western expansion. The Midwest, they add, doesn't have large new areas to develop for cattle grazing.

On the other hand, Dixie is the last remaining large area in the nation where there are many millions of acres that can easily be put into improved pastures and forage crops and used to expand cattle production even far beyond the present growth.

Dixie even now produces more than 75 per cent of the nation's broiler-fryer output. Georgia is by far the top poultry state in the United States.

BEEF CATTLE production, of course, still is centered in the traditional cattle-raising areas of the Midwest and West. But production is increasing faster in the Southeast. State Cattlemen's Association in Florida, North Carolina and a few other states are vigorously promoting consumption of local beef.

A decade ago southern cattlemen never dreamed they would be bidding against western ranchmen in their own backyards. Now, though, it is common for trainloads of cattle to be moved from the South into Texas, Oklahoma, the corn belt states, and even to California, and at current market value.

According to a study by the Atlanta field office of the U.S. Department of Commerce, the seven-state region of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and the Carolinas now leads the nation in the postwar rate of increase in the development of livestock.

Livestock and its products have recently become the major source of cash farm income in three southeastern states—Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

IN TWO DECADES the number of livestock auction markets in the Southeast has increased threefold while only doubling in such cattle-producing areas of the Southwest as Texas and Oklahoma. In 1930 there were only 200 auction markets in the Southeast; today there are several thousand, and with total sales running into millions of head annually.

Many of these cattle, though, are shipped to western feed lots for finishing and come back to the South as tender western steak. Some of the southern cattle are slaughtered and because of low grade go into hamburgers.

Now, however, greater numbers of beef cattle are being finished on Dixie farms and large feed lot operations are coming upon the scene. On some farms pasture fattening and feed-lot feeding are combined to produce a highly finished product.

Because of this, say the farm economists, the day comes nearer when the southern housewife, instead of asking at the meat counter for a "western steak," will be asking for a southern one—nice and tender.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a nice, decent girl 14 years of age. Last evening my girl friend and I were walking around town and a car drove up alongside us. It was a couple of fellows from school.

We knew them slightly but had never been out with them. Both boys are good looking, popular and well thought of. Any girl would consider herself lucky to have a date with either of them.

We got into the car and rode around awhile. Then we parked in an out-of-the-way place and started to talk.

My fellow, Barry, kissed me several times and I guess you might say we necked for about an hour and a half.

When Barry took me home he just let me out of the car. He didn't even walk me to the door. I feel cheap and now I'm afraid he doesn't respect me and that he'll never ask me for a real date. I could kick myself for the way I acted.

How can I get across to Barry that I'm really a nice girl?—HATE MYSELF.

Dear Hate Yourself: The best way to be respected is to behave yourself. TELLING a fellow you're decent and respectable won't do it — not when you permit yourself to be picked up and then wind up necking on a lonesome road.

This experience needn't be a total loss if you learn from it. You've probably muddled the waters for keeps with Barry but you'll have other opportunities to behave like a lady. Just make sure you do.

Alcoholic Parents

Dear Ann: My wife's sister and her husband are both alcoholics. They live next door with their three children who are under 8 years of age.

Every night they leave the kids alone while they go from one joint to another. The little ones often come to our house, tell us that daddy and mamma are gone and that they're hungry.

We feed them and put them in our extra room for the night. Those kids have been left with measles and flu and if we didn't watch after them Lord knows what would happen.

We have three children of our own but both my wife and I would be happy to take these kids if we could get legal custody. Please tell us how to go about it.—D.F.

Dear D.F.: The first step is to write a sworn statement against the parents listing the reasons you feel they are unfit parents. With this statement express desire for custody. Contact the juvenile authorities, present the statement and be prepared to stand by it in court, if necessary.

Perhaps if this pair loses the children it may shake them up enough so that they'll seek help for themselves.

Southern Magic

Dear Ann: What is there about a Southern accent that simply slays the men? A woman moved up here from New Orleans and every guy in the office hangs around her desk because she "talks so darling."

We're getting fed up on her honey-dripping helplessness. Please suggest in your column that the Southerners learn to speak English. They sound uneducated.—RED WHITE AND BLUE YANKEES.

Dear Red White and Blue: You sound green to me—with envy, that is. Men (especially Northern) love a Southern accent because it's soft and feminine. Personally, I like it.

Share the Paper

Dear Ann: What can be done about people who crane their necks and sit too close on trains and buses because they want to look at the paper you are reading?—Squashed.

Dear Squashed: Don't be a meanie. Pull out a section of the paper and hand it over.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Students Dig Into History; Find Relics

CRESCENT BAR, Wash., (AP) —On a sandy outcropping in the Columbia River, a bearded youth sifts dirt through a screen.

At a long table in the center of an old community dance hall five miles away, a suntanned coed sorts pieces of stone into brown paper bags.

These are college students, getting summer school credits far from any classroom. They are also part of an area-wide archaeological venture which has blossomed as the dams have risen on the rivers of the Pacific Northwest.

Piece by piece, these grimy, perspiring scholars are fitting together the story of the semi-nomadic Indian tribes who wintered along the mighty Columbia in prehistoric times.

There are 18 in this group from the University of Washington —excavating in an area which will be flooded by Wanapum Dam, under construction by the Grant County, Wash., Public Utility District.

Six days each week, a digging party makes a five-mile motorboat trip downstream from the group's headquarters at the Crescent Bar Community Hall to the site of an ancient Indian village. The site is inaccessible by land.

Carefully, square by square, they dig away the crust of centuries overlying Indian "house pits" and fire hearths. The pits are shallow depressions on which the Indians erected tent-styled homes.

Nobody knows just how old these relics are. This is one of the things the archaeologists are trying to find out. Some estimates of the age of finds in the area range as high as 6,000 to 8,000 years. Most are more conservative.

Some of these same students dug at another site downstream, above the same agency's Priest Rapids Dam. A group from Washington State University is working in the reservoir-to-be behind Ice Harbor Dam on the Snake River.

Parties from universities in Oregon and British Columbia have carried out excavations behind other damsites.

The work is coordinated by the National Park Service and the Smithsonian Institution. It is generally financed by the agency building the dam. The Grant County PUD, in accordance with a requirement in its license from the Federal Power Commission, has put up $40,000 for archaeological excavations at its two damsites over a five-year period.

Similar work goes on in other parts of the country. President Eisenhower recently signed a bill providing for preservation of historical and archaeological data which might be lost because of dams. The Interior Department said this had already happened in many cases, notably those of the Randall, S. D., and Buford, Ga., reservoirs.

Jasper National Park — 4,200 miles in the heart of the Canadian Rockies — is named for Jasper Hawes, a young fur trapper from Missouri. Little is known of Hawes except he had yellow hair, a winning personality and loved nature.

Good Recovery

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Even beauty contest winners have their troubles.

Mrs. North Carolina — Mrs. Nan Leaprott, a minister's wife — explained her woes of cake baking in the national contest to the Lions Club here.

The pan she was given had a hole in it, and the cake batter ran through and burned.

After transferring the batter to another pan, she didn't have time to let it bake.

After she pulled out what cake she had and arranged it on a platter, another contestant brushed it and made it crumble.

"In spite of all this," she says, "I put a lot of icing on it and covered up the bad spots."

She placed third in cake judging.

Congo

asked him to report back in three days.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov explained he voted for the rival Ceylon-Tunisia proposal because it specified Hammarskjöld's main job was to get the Belgian troops out.

Earlier he accused Belgium of aggression against the Congo and said if this aggression continued, his government would "not hesitate before any decisive action aimed at repelling the aggressor."

Kuznetsov said only Belgian bayonets were propping up Tshombe. He said if the U.N. force could not oust the Belgians from the Congo, troops must be sent from other countries ready to help. Ghana and Guinea both have offered to take their troops out of the U.N. force and put them under control of the Lumumba government.

Hammarskjöld told Kuznetsov bluntly, "I do not believe, personally, that we help the Congolese people by actions in which Africans kill Africans, or Congolese kill Congolese."

Tunisian delegate Mongi Slim, introducing the Ceylonese-Tunisian resolution, also said the U.N. troops "ought to be fully authorized" to use force if that was the only way they could get into Katanga. But Hammarskjöld reminded the council it had power to enforce decisions for peace by calling on U.N. members to break off diplomatic relations, trade and communications with any recalcitrant country.

In presenting his report Monday, Hammarskjöld declared the "main cause of continued danger" was the presence of Belgian troops in Katanga. "The problem of the Congo is one of peace or war—and not only in the Congo," he said.

U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the stake was "peace not only for the Congo but for the world." He said Belgium no longer had any reason "to postpone speedy withdrawal from Katanga."

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny said the resolution would "hurt the Belgian people" and make it hard for him to persuade them they could trust the U.N. force to safeguard the 20,000 Belgian nationals in Katanga. He said security must be "maintained without a break."

Voters Fight on Juneau's Fate

To Decide Where Capital Will Be

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Fought by both the mountains and the sea, this once-roaring gold camp's fight to remain capital of the nation's largest state was in the hands of the voters today.

An estimated 35,000 ballots, far below the record number of 50,343 cast in the 1958 general election, were expected to decide whether Juneau would lose the capital to the Cook Inlet-railbelt area, dominated by booming Anchorage, the state's largest city.

Gov. William A. Egan would be empowered to name a five-man committee to select an actual site in the Cook Inlet-railbelt area for a new capital, to be established by Jan. 1, 1965, if the proposal wins approval.

Egan and the other two top Democrats in the state, Sens. Ernest Gruening and E. L. Bartlett, both have said they oppose the capital move proposal.

So have the two top Republicans, Mike Stepovich, who was governor of Alaska under territorial status; and John Butrovich, who fought Egan for the governorship two years ago.

Drawing their main support in Anchorage, backers of the capital move plan argued that Juneau was too far from the Anchorage-Fairbanks center of population; that great economies could be achieved by moving the capital from Juneau; and that air transportation to Juneau, the only year-round means of getting here, was often interrupted by fog and rain clouds.

And, pointing at Juneau's place on a narrow ledge between high mountains and deep-flowing Gastineau Channel, they said there is no room for capital expansion here.

Every point was denied heatedly by the Juneau backers in a bitter campaign that has raged unabated for a year.

Almost forgotten in the heat of the capital campaign were nomination races for one U.S. Senate seat and the state's U.S. House of Representatives seat.

Democrat E. L. Bartlett was unopposed for his party's nomination for another term in the Senate. Battling for the GOP bid to face him were Lawrence Brayton, a Fairbanks surveyor, and Lee L. McKinley, a Palmer dentist.

Democratic Rep. Ralph J. Rivers has opposition within his own party in his bid for another term, from David N. Boyer, a hotel owner from Kenai. Three men, William C. Haugaard, a Sitka lawyer; R. L. Rettig, an Anchorage accountant; and Jack Ryan, a Fairbanks newspaperman, seek the GOP nomination.

Laos

Laotian army, provides other aid and backs the nation's currency. The United States has poured 165 million dollars into the kingdom since 1955.

In addition to the U. S. military advisers, there are about 80 Americans in Laos helping in the aid program.

There was no word of the fate of Premier Tiao Somsanith, a good friend of the United States who took office in May after April elections. Reports circulated in neighboring Thailand that many Laotian government officials had been arrested, but they made no specific mention of Somsanith.

Airlines reported the Vietnamese airfield closed to all flights.

The revolution came in what had appeared to be a period of relative calm. Just 13 months ago the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, supported by neighboring North Viet Nam, ignited guerrilla warfare in northern Laos. The trouble spread southward but calmed after the United Nations sent a representative to look things over.

City Lighting

ness practices used in other area cities.

He pays special attention to the fact that the city's estimate of $23,900 does not take into consideration depreciation. In this category alone, he said, the city should be setting aside at least five per cent based on replacing the lighting system every 20 years.

Five per cent per annum of the net worth of the system based on Edison Co.'s offer of $94,000 would be exactly the replacement cost at the close of 20 years, Harding claims. Adding this figure to the cost per year of operation as proposed by Worman would bring his figure closer to $29,000, Harding says. He also calls attention to the fact that his company would not obligate the city to pay for re-vamping every 20 years as this cost is figured in depreciation.

Harding states that the city, by making the sale, can accrue interest on the sale price by investment or save interest by retiring bonds. If the money had been invested years ago it would have accrued interest at almost $3,000 per year, which should also be added to the $23,900 city figure for operation, bringing that total including depreciation, operation, and loss of interest to around $32,000 he said.

IN REPLY TO WONNER'S claims that the city would lose control, Harding points out that his company is obligated to the city under franchise to perform those functions requested of it. He thinks further that his company's area staff of some 90 persons could better and more efficiently handle the city's needs in time of emergency and upon request.

He noted for example, that many of the brackets used to support street lights are in need of paint. His firm, he states, would have this problem corrected almost immediately. Harding said he does not question Worman's ability, but doubts that Worman and his single assistant can get the work done as rapidly as his crews can.

Extending his claim that the city would receive more efficient service, he points out that under Ohio Edison's control, the system would be equipped with an automatic device which turns the lights on, depending on the stage of darkness. This would replace the automatic timing device used by the city which turns the lights on at the same time every night until the timing is changed.

Harding declares his firm pays roughly one quarter of its gross income in taxes, personal property, real estate, income, etc.

These are the arguments Council will weigh tonight. It's decision, no matter which side it favors, undoubtedly will draw criticism.

Senate

every means at their command—meaning a filibuster.

The Democrats gathered their forces to pass some bills that Eisenhower won't like and may veto. He may not consider acceptable Democratic-backed bills for housing, school construction, medical care for the elderly, depressed areas assistance and a minimum wage increase.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, said if Eisenhower will see to it that half the Republicans in Congress vote for a "responsible program" he and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, will do their best to get it passed.

A spokesman said Nixon thought Eisenhower's proposals were "very good."

Experts Think Powers Held In Solitary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The father of U2 pilot, Francis Gary Powers says experts think his Soviet-imprisoned son has been given "a 10-to-15 day treatment in solitary confinement."

Oliver Powers of Pound, Va., did not identify the experts he said had told him that. He and his wife are heading for Moscow, where their son faces trial Aug. 17 on espionage charges.

But the Soviet Union's No. 2 jurist angrily dismissed as "absolute rubbish" the possibility that the pilot was brainwashed.

"Capt. Powers has not been influenced in any way for the trial. Such methods as using lie-detector and brainwashing techniques are loathsome to our legal ideals," L. N. Smirnov told newsmen in London Monday night. Smirnov is deputy chairman of the Soviet Supreme Court.

Powers, whose plane was shot down over the Soviet Union May 1, faces trial before the Military College of the Supreme Soviet. The Soviet penalty for conviction of espionage ranges from 15 years imprisonment to death.

The pilot's parents arrived here Monday on the first leg of their journey to Moscow. Powers' wife is expected to leave her home at Milledgeville, Ga., later this week. She is scheduled to arrive in Moscow Aug. 18.

The father told newsmen he believed Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will heed his appeal for clemency. He said he was pretty sure Khrushchev will listen to the appeal of "one working man to another and one father to another."

Dirksen said that if the tabling motion carried, he thought it would "just about wind up civil rights proceedings for this session." The effect would be to route the bill to the Judiciary Committee.

Braves Down Dodgers On Covington's Homer

By The Associated Press
It wouldn't be surprising if the Los Angeles Dodgers held a high level conference today on a touchy subject: What to do about Wes Covington.

On July 31 the Milwaukee Braves outfielder with the gimpy knee came off the bench in the eighth inning to hit a home run off Don Drysdale, the towering Dodgers speedball artist. It didn't win the ball game, but it wasn't Covington's fault.

Monday night at Milwaukee, with two out in the eighth inning and two Braves on base, and Drysdale again pitching for the Dodgers, Covington hoisted himself from the bench and picked up a bat.

Possibly recalling his last exploit as a pinch hitter against Drysdale, Manager Walter Alston called in Ed Roebuck to pitch to the big fellow.

Covington promptly hit a three-run homer, enough to give the Braves a 7-6 victory and cut the lead of the idle Pittsburgh Pirates to five games.

Cincinnati's Reds pulled out a 4-3 ninth-inning victory over the San Francisco Giants in the only other National League game.

In the American League the second-place White Sox clouted the New York Yankees 9-1, reducing

Canfield Speedway Releases Advance Racing Schedule

Late model stock cars will feature racing action at Canfield Speedway this week. An eight-race program will be staged on Saturday night, headed by a 25-lap feature.

Point-leader in MARC late models, Jim Beckstaff of Youngstown, will head the field. Also entered are Bill Forney, Youngstown; Nook Walters, Niles; Scotty Rogers, Chagrin Falls; Dick Lentz, Newton Falls; Ed Mitchell and Frank Myers, Warren; Roy Gemberling, Kent; Ken Reeder, McConnellsville, Pa.; Bill Watson, Youngstown; Wimpy May, Auburn Corners; and many others.

Time trials begin at 7 and first race at 8:30 p.m.

The motorcycles have been booked for two more shows at Canfield. The 35-bike field will race on Friday night, Aug. 19 and Sept. 9, with the sensational Ronnie Hall heading the field.

However, the biggest racing event of the season will be held Sunday afternoon, Sept. 18 as Charlie Findlay has booked the MARC new cars in a big 250-lap grind over the half-mile track.

The Sept. 18 date will not only have the top drivers competing, but will have the largest entry, some 45 to 50, seen this year in the Midwest.

Nelson Stacey of Cincinnati, present MARC point-leader and national champion for the past two years, will head a classy field of drivers.

Former winner of the Canfield Memorial Day Classic Don White of Keokuk, Iowa, is entered, trying to repeat his 1959 victory, while 1958 victor, Les Snow of Bloomington, will also be on hand.

At least seven states will be represented in this spectacular auto racing classic.

BUCKEYE HANDICAP SLATED
Forty-one handicap stars, including multiple representation from each of three stables which have won the mile and a furlong fixture in past seasons, have been nominated for the 11th running of Randall Park's $20,000 guaranteed Buckeye Handicap on Aug. 20.

Topping the list are Talent Show and Rare Rice owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice whose cerise and white silks were triumphant in last year's Buckeye when Air Pilot scored a narrow verdict over Terra Firma.

Chisox Hang 9-1 Pasting on Yankees

By The Associated Press
It was increasingly evident today that the Chicago White Sox have no intention of rolling over and playing dead whenever things get tough in the American League race.

Luke Appling Joins Indians As Coach

CLEVELAND (AP) — Luke Appling will be the coach at third base tonight when the Cleveland Indians open a three-game series with the Boston Red Sox.

He came to the Indians from Detroit Monday to join Manager Jimmie Dykes as Jo Jo White left the Tribe to join his old pal, Joe Gordon, with the Tigers. Dykes and Gordon exchanged uniforms last week.

A former star shortstop for the Chicago White Sox, Appling was the first base coach for Dykes with the Tigers, but will take White's place at third base with the Indians.

Jim Perry, Cleveland's most dependable pitcher at the moment, will go against the Red Sox tonight. He seeks his 14th victory.

Billy Monbouquette (12-8), who has become one of the most feared pitchers in the American League, will open for Boston.

Dykes indicated Monday that his lineup tonight will depend on the condition of John Temple, who did not play in the second game of the Sunday doubleheader with Baltimore because of a back ailment.

Temple will be at second base if he is able to play and Ken Aspromonte will be moved back to third. If Temple is still sidelined, Dykes may try Vic Power at third and Tito Francona at first, leaving Aspromonte at second.

"I don't want Rocky Bridges to suffer any more than he has," Dykes said.

Bridges, substituting at third, muffed a pop fly Saturday and two runs scored. He made two more errors Sunday and was booed by the fans.

All-Stars Hope To Beat Colts With Passes

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Meredith, George Izo or Pete Hall. Take your pick.

On the arms of these three passers rest the College All-Stars' hopes of upsetting the Baltimore Colts Friday night in the midsummer football classic in Soldier Field.

Meredith, Izo and Hall were three of the finest collegiate passers in the nation last fall. Whether they can connect against the Colts remains to be seen.

Meredith did his pitching for Southern Methodist and in some quarters is considered the finest passer to emerge from the college ranks in years.

Don got his initial experience of playing professional ball last week in a scrimmage against the Chicago Bears. The All-Stars lost 30-14 but Meredith accounted for the losers' two scores with touchdown passes.

Izo is a native of Barborton, Ohio. He did his passing at Notre Dame and has the professional touch. Izo can throw long, short, hard or soft — depending on the situation.

Hall, from Wheatland, Pa., is one of the finest passers to come out of Marquette. At 21 he is one year younger than Izo and Meredith and will play his professional football with the New York Giants.

Coach Otto Graham has not as yet committed himself which of these three quarterbacks will start against the Colts.

Paul Brown Happy With Two Punters

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Sam Baker did the kicking for the first unit and Clyde Washington kicked for the second Monday when the Cleveland Browns worked on punting as a team effort for the first time.

Watching the soaring pigskins, Coach Paul Brown said: "Here we've been looking for a punter for years and now we come up with two fine ones at the same time."

He said he probably will use both Baker and Washington in the exhibition game in Detroit Saturday night against the Lions.

Baker, who came to Cleveland from the Washington Redskins, was a running back at Oregon State but will stick to punting and place kicking for the Browns.

Washington, former Purdue star, is making his bid as a corner back.

The Browns skipped their customary passing drill Monday. Quarterback Milt Plum has a bruised chest and several of the receivers were limping as a result of Saturday's scrimmage.

Quarterback Len Dawson was holding for the place kickers. Some players are expected to be dropped from the squad before the exhibition opener with the Lions.

Brown and his staff checked movies of the scrimmage Monday night and planned to go over the film again today.

Hot Stove Leagues

The red hot pennant race in Class G should come to a boil tonight when two of the top contenders, Fire Department and K of C, are slated to battle it out at Centennial Park in a 6 p.m. encounter.

The Firemen currently pace the loop with a 10-2 mark. Next comes Scott's Sports at 10-3 and K of C at 9-3. The Firemen and Scott's also have a makeup game to play later in the season that will go a long way in deciding which team takes all the marbles in Class G.

A major upset was pulled in Class F last night by Elks who hung an 8-5 defeat on Youngstown Kitchens, the team which is currently one of the four teams in the state who are still battling for the championship of Ohio's 12 to 14 year olds.

Class E
Bliss CIO, which has come on strong after an early season snooze that saw it lose four of its first five games, plastered Leetonia CO 4022 by an 18-4 score.

Bliss rapped Leetonia hurler Dave Tingle for 14 hits, including home runs by Gary Jeffries and Dick Keeler. Keeler enjoyed a perfect night at the plate, slugging out two singles and a double besides his round tripper which was a grand slam job in the third inning.

Jeffries collected two singles and a walk in addition to his homer which led off the game.

Ted Beery, Don Kendrick and Keeler shared the hurling duties for Bliss. Beery picked up the win. He gave up two of Leetonia's three hits. Gary Zeppernick of Leetonia slammed a triple to highlight a four-run fifth inning when Keeler got himself into hot water by walking three batters.

Dave Walker was the hero in Elks' 8-5 upset win over Youngstown Kitchens. He held the slugging YK club to just one hit while recording eight strikeouts.

Powerful Farmers Bank completed an undefeated season in league play by trouncing Fisher News 15-2.

A third-inning double by Clyde Stoffer was the only hit Youngstown Kitchens was able to garner off the offerings of young Walker. The losers were able to tally five runs on four walks, two hit batsmen and three Elks errors.

Elks scored six times in the first inning off three YK hurlers. Stoffer started on the hill but couldn't get anybody out, Jan Steele came on and gave up two hits, including a triple by Dan Winner. Hilton Moffett finally came on to retire the side and finish the game.

Dyer Scott's home run featured Farmers Bank's 15-2 win over Fisher News. Bink Washington hurled for the winners. The clever right hander recorded 11 strikeouts while tossing a four-hitter.

Todd Chappell's home run sparked a five run rally in the sixth inning which brought Scott's from a 13-9 deficit. Scott's was down 11-4 after four innings.

John Tolson had a home run for Scott's and Jim Dauria chipped in with three hits. Bob Wagner collected a round tripper for National Cleaners.

Petrucci's got only eight hits but combined them with eight walks and nine Hunt errors to score 21 runs.

Bob Briskin and Lyman Kelly rapped out three hits apiece for Petrucci's. Alf Fitch had a homer for Hunt's.

262 Golfers Seek Ohio Pub-Links Title

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The biggest field in the tournament's history goes after Ohio's 27th public links golf championship today. The fee-course classic, scheduled for 72 holes of medal play over Chipewaw Country Club's 6,391-yard par 72 layout, drew 265 entrants.

However, only 262 started the three-day test. Two players withdrew because of the deaths of their fathers. Bill McGuckin, chief of police at Columbiana, dropped out when half of his two-man force failed to return on time from vacation.

Five former champions, including 1959 winner Art Todd of Columbus, are in the race. Also making a bid for another crown are two-time champion Dave Daniels of Columbus, State Rep. Don Nist of Canton, and Len Pietras and Jay Krochmalny, both of Toledo.

In a pro-amateur and amateur-amateur prologue Monday the swashbuckling pay-as-you-go contestants for the Chippewa battle ground apart. With one professional joining three amateurs as a best ball team, a score of 62- or 10 under par—walked off with the heavy end of the merchandise prizes.

The winning four were professional Walter Pacer of Toledo, a 62-year-old veteran, and amateurs Bill Strickland of Dayton, Vargil Lake of Toledo and 17-year-old John Kanche of Warren. Strickland sank a 35-foot birdie putt on the final hole for the one-stroke margin over three other foursomes which tied at 63.

In the amateur-amateur affair, Don Kopley of Massillon and 17-year-old Tom Weiskopf Jr. of Cleveland, winner of the recent Jaycee state tournament, finished in front with a 30-35-65 score.

In the pro-am, deadlocked at 63,

a stroke off the pace, were these four-man groups:

Frank Gacek of Parma, Jim Valardo of Cleveland, Pietras and Bob Pemberton of Toledo; Vic Masterana, Tony Shorie, Phil Veno and Ange Spitalo, all of Canton; and Jim Allen and Fred Martin of Canton, Nist and Ted Katula of Youngstown.

The big field teed off at 7:30 a.m. EST today, but was not expected to complete its chores by nightfall. Any left on the course after sunset will make up a dawn patrol Wednesday to complete the first round before starting the second.

The 60 low scorers at the end of Wednesday's play go into Thursday's 36-hole marathon finishing.

Favorites Meet Today In Legion Baseball

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Three and possibly four teams drop out of competition today in the second round of the double-elimination Ohio American Legion junior baseball tournament.

The first three contests today in the two-defeats-and-out tourney pitted loser against loser, while the fourth game matched a loser against a winner.

The other three games on tap all paired winner against winner.

In that latter category came an expected tooth-and-nail struggle between defending champion Columbus Scioto Post and five-time national Legion champs Cincinnati Bentley.

In Monday's afternoon games, Lima got by Piqua, 3-2; Findlay shut out Lancaster 2-0; Bridgeport edged Akron 6-4 in 10 innings; and Cleveland Jacobic Post trampled Portsmouth 7-0.

SPORTSMAN CLUB TO MEET

The regular August meeting of the Beaver Creek Sportsman Club of Washingtonville will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the club building on the Canfield Rd. Plans for the annual Family Day picnic will be discussed and a movie will be shown.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.
Don't Get Halitosis-Complex

I hope there's no one in your household whose attitudes and behaviors have been modified by fear of having an offensive breath odor (halitosis).

I've known sensitive young men who couldn't look you straight in the eye when you engaged them in personal conversation for fear that you'd detect their "offensive mouth odor."

I've known quite attractive young girls who discouraged prospective suitors for fear that their "awful secret" would be discovered in the course of courtship.

By this, I don't mean to give the impression that each of us has a baby-sweet breath at all times. Far from it.

MAYBE SOME TIME in each day, the breath will be somewhat fouled by food stuck between teeth or by dried secretions retained in the nasal cavity, sinuses or in the back of the throat.

Maybe the odor is due to some odoriferous food we've eaten like raw onions or garlic.

Maybe it's due to an inflammation of the gums (pyorrhea), to a decaying tooth or unclean dentures. Alcoholic beverages or medicines, especially those that contain arsenic, can foul breath.

WHATEVER the cause, you may be sure that:

1. Halitosis is a temporary condition. It's not a disease or lasting symptom.

2. Halitosis will disappear as soon as the cause for its presence is removed or corrected.

3. At best, halitosis will be masked for only a very few minutes by a mouthwash or dentifrice containing an aromatic.

LATER, WHEN the masking odor of the aromatic has been blown off in the course of a few hundred exhalations, the unpleasant smell will be detectable once again unless the cause has been removed or corrected.

4. If you think you are temporarily afflicted with halitosis, ask your best friend. You'll be told, contrary to what you may read in the ads.

If you do have an unpleasant odor, put on your Sherlock Holmes cap and see if you can't discover and eliminate the cause.

5. If your efforts fail, better see your doctor.

Occasionally the breath is fouled as a result of serious disease, like infections or growths of the bronchi and lungs or advanced kidney failure.

IF YOUR BEST friend gives you a clean bill of health, for Pete's sake don't give the appearance of being a shifty character by talking out of the side of your mouth. Don't give the impression that you're speaking to someone off to the right or left of the person you're addressing.

And if you're a sought-after gal, don't pass up that date because you're afraid of coming within kissing distance of your boy friend. Remember the poet's advice "to gather ye rosebuds while ye may."

Chief Lutsch Issues Monthly Report

The monthly report of Chief Martin Lutsch of the Salem Police Department shows that 950 persons were cited for parking and traffic violations in July.

This figure includes improper parking, parking in prohibited zones and overtime parking citations.

Police also made four arrests for driving while intoxicated, 20 road and driving law arrests, and four traffic and motor vehicle law arrests. Misdemeanors other than traffic included five drunkness, two disorderly conduct and two others.

Accidents investigated included 2 three-car, 18 two-car, 5 fixed objects and 1 hit-skip. There were 10 injuries recorded in the 26 accidents.

In other areas of the report, the chief recorded 12 cases of petit larceny; 1, breaking and entering;

4, grand larceny; and 2, auto theft.

SHELLS, AN APPLE, bells, and pipecleaners are the ingredients of a few of the 92 dolls collected by the Whitcomb sisters, of 1468 E. 3rd St. Sandra, 12, (l.), and Janice, 14, are looking over a 102-year-old antique doll which once belonged to their great-great-aunt.

Lisbon Ruritan Club To Mark 'Youth Night'

LISBON — "Youth Night" will be observed when the Lisbon Ruritan Club meets tonight at 7 at the Christian Church, according to Walter Cole, program chairman.

Two 4-H club members will address the club on safety, and the outstanding vocational agriculture student at Beaver Local High School will discuss his farming program.

The club has a gift chain program, and the young farmer who will receive the next gift will be announced at this meeting, along with other youth awards, Cole said.

Noggins vs. Pinheads

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You think you've got troubles?

Well, you don't even know what troubles are—unless you've got a size 7½ head.

"Whatever you do in life, don't get a big head."

This advice is given to millions of youngsters every year by everyone from maiden aunts to camp counselors. The same advice is given to film stars, salesmen, Army sergeants or flagpole sitters—to anyone growing up or going up in the world.

Friends, neighbors, and relatives have contributed to the growing collection by sending dolls from all parts of the world. Started on Christmas, 1953, the collection now represents 32 of America's 50 states, along with 10 foreign countries, including Greece, Holland, Switzerland and South American Nations.

of a difference this half size seems to make. Some people half-believe that

This advice is sound, sane and sensible. But what if you can't avoid it? What if your head becomes enlarged, not by prideful self-nurture, but by nature?

What if you were born with a big head and, no matter what you did, it kept growing bigger and bigger and still bigger?

If you are one whose head stands out in a crowd, your problems begin in your youth.

Guess which one the algebra teacher calls on to explain the theory of quadratic equations. Naturally, the kid with the big head. His noggin catches the teacher's eye because it stands out in the class like a toadstool in a cluster of daisies.

There isn't a thing you can do about it either. As a lad I remember tying a rope around my head above the ears hoping it would squeeze smaller while I slept. All it gave me was a headache—a big headache.

When I reached maturity, my head finally stopped growing—I hope. On cold clear crisp days I have a size 7½ head, but on warm muggy days in summer it swells to size 7.

Really, a size 7½ head is only about a half-size larger than an ordinary head, but what a whale because you have a big head you must have a big brain and therefore should be smarter than they find you really are. Actually, of course, the size of the brain is no real index to mental ability.

ist—but the largest belonged to an idiot.

So, friends one and all, do not laugh at a man with an oversized noggin. He would gladly trade places with you pinheads any day in the week.
